

About Us

When it comes to finding a job, making sure people have the skills they need for the position plays an essential role. People who do not have the necessary skills can find themselves struggling in a new position. They may start to lose confidence and feel unsure about what to do. The businesses that hire them will also feel frustrated as they lose money and time. They find themselves training new employees who do not have the insight and practical knowledge they need to do what they were hired to do.

People who participate in our career-specific vocational training program in either food or janitorial services, will have the credentials and training they need to get started right away in their chosen career path.

After completing this three month training students will enter the work force with the tools and experience needed to thrive. They will have received hands on training and education creating a well-rounded skill set that employers crave.

Our two job specific vocational services being offered will be in the Janitorial and Food services. Here students will receive an extensive 12 week hands on training – both in a classroom and on-site learning. They will have a chance to learn about the products, equipment and knowledge that goes into working in these fields. Students will also have a chance to learn soft skills – these group activities will focus on communication, problem-solving and leadership assets. The training provided is a curriculum written solely for this program and adapted from several educational institutions as well as following the HACCP guidelines.

Students will need to be available to travel to onsite locations if necessary for that day's learning as well as to the classroom daily. Traveling expenses can be provided. Students will also be expected to show professionalism and a readiness to enter the workforce once training has been completed.
